

Sponsorship Program

The Sensor and Measurement Science International – SMSI 2023 – Conference will take place in Nuremberg, Germany, from 8 – 11 May 2023, in conjunction with SENSOR+TEST, the international trade fair for sensor, measuring and testing technology.

The SMSI 2023 will spotlight the most recent innovations in a) sensor technology ranging from the instrumentation of modern industrial processes via bio-medical and environmental sensing applications up to Industry 4.0 and the Internet of Things, in b) sophisticated measurement solutions as well as in c) highly specialized metrology regulations.

The sponsorship program is the most efficient way to make your company visible to the community during and after the conference:

- Present your company, highlight innovations and services and receive feedback and ideas from the audience
- Network with both existing and new contacts as well as discover new business opportunities
- Get visible and get in contact with potential staff members for your company

The sponsorship program provides companies an excellent platform to demonstrate their high-quality services and their latest product developments to scientists from all over the world. Besides the four fixed sponsorship packages, we also offer the possibility for customized packages based on the following items and services:
